Emory creates Native American and Indigenous Engagement HUB

Emory has created a hub for Native American and Indigenous Engagement at Emory (NAIE) to create a system of dialogues, support, and resources that foster a stronger connection between Native American and Indigenous students, faculty, and allies at Emory and beyond. NAIE is working to amplify Native voices on campus as well as creating more visibility and awareness of Native American and Alaska Native issues.

Careers & Networking

Career Tip: Redefining Rest and Productivity

Last month, RSPH alumna and life coach, Marissa McKool 15PH helped us launch a new webinar series focusing on self-care and ways you can re-energize yourself and your career after a difficult and exhausting past 20 months. The session, Redefining Rest and Productivity, taught us how our unconscious beliefs around what productivity and rest mean actually prevent us from getting the rest we need to feel and do our best! WATCH our first session and find more tips from Marissa at www.mckoolcoaching.com or check out her podcast series Thoughts are Your Root Cause.
