WHAT IS REAL?
The Rollins Earn And Learn is a program that offers eligible full-time MPH and MSPH student's valuable opportunities to earn while they learn.

- The program provides funding for full-time master’s level public health graduate students to support their academic interests with applied public health experiences.

- Partner organizations include federal, state, county and other government agencies, Emory University, Emory Healthcare, Emory- affiliated programs, for-profit and nonprofit organizations throughout Atlanta.

- Earnings are funded by both the Rollins School of Public Health and the approved partnering organizations.
Overview of REAL

- Unique to Rollins School of Public Health
- Vital component of training the public health workforce
- Opportunity to mentor new professionals
- Students provide their skills and assets and deepen their public health competencies
- RSPH pays half their salary!!!!
The Rollins School of Public Health’s signature program, Rollins Earn and Learn (REAL), offers full-time MPH and MSPH students with work opportunities in the public health arena that allow them to earn while they learn. Students develop professional goals, meet public health competencies, and complement their classroom training with invaluable work experiences in the field. REAL is a cost-sharing program in which the school and partner agencies and organizations split the cost of employing students up to 200 hours per semester @ $15.00 per hour, allowing students to earn up to $3,500 per semester ($6,000 per year).

Over its 10-year history, REAL partners have included 150 federal, state, and county agencies, as well as nonprofit and for-profit organizations in Atlanta and throughout the United States. These integral experiences often fulfill applied practice experience (or practicum) requirements, lead to thesis opportunities, and provide an enriching experience for both partners and students. The mentorship and skills students receive during their REAL employment enables them to thrive in their degree programs and establish strong partnerships in the field that often lead to fulfilling careers and friendships after graduation.

REAL got its start in 2009 when work-study funding for graduate students was eliminated. Rollins’ Dean, James W. Curran, recognized the importance of helping students fund their education while gaining applied public health experience with vetted community partners and to make it available to at least half of the student body. The framework for the program was built out of existing partnerships with University affiliates, and national and international agencies enabling unique opportunities for students to engage in hands-on research, mentoring, and public health practice.

Goals for the next decade of REAL include expanding cost-sharing opportunities to global partners outside the United States through international remote work arrangements and amplifying the impact of the REAL award by making it available to every Rollins student.
