

Alumni in Action

A Message from our Board President

Our RSPH Alumni Board recently had an opportunity to hear from Associate Dean Dr. Kimberly Arriola about the school's plans for 2018 and beyond. President Carmen Price 12PH recaps what's happening in admissions, academic leadership, and research in her message. Read.

Alumni Spotlight: Ilana Cliffer, MPH

March is National Nutrition Month so, in preparation, we're catching up with Rollins alumna Ilana Cliffer 13PH to talk about her research on nutrition in Burkina Faso. For the last three years, Ilana has led a research project for Tufts University on the effectiveness and cost effectiveness of four different supplementary food commodities in the prevention of moderate acute malnutrition. For the past decade, the Emory Alumni Board has awarded scholarships to students making a positive impact on their community. This year two Rollins students, Elizabeth Odunaiya 18PH and Regina Zuniga de la Cerda 18PH were chosen to receive the award. A total of eight Rollins students have received the scholarship since its Rollins goes All in!

Emory's second annual "All in a Day" giving campaign fared even better than the first! More than $880,000 was raised for the university, and Rollins raised over $47,000 through 342 gifts in the 24-hour period. Thank you to all our alumni, students, faculty, and staff who joined together to make a difference by contributing to student scholarships and field experiences, preventing maternal mortality, and supporting global humanitarian efforts.

Careers & Networking

Career Tip: Soft Skills Matter

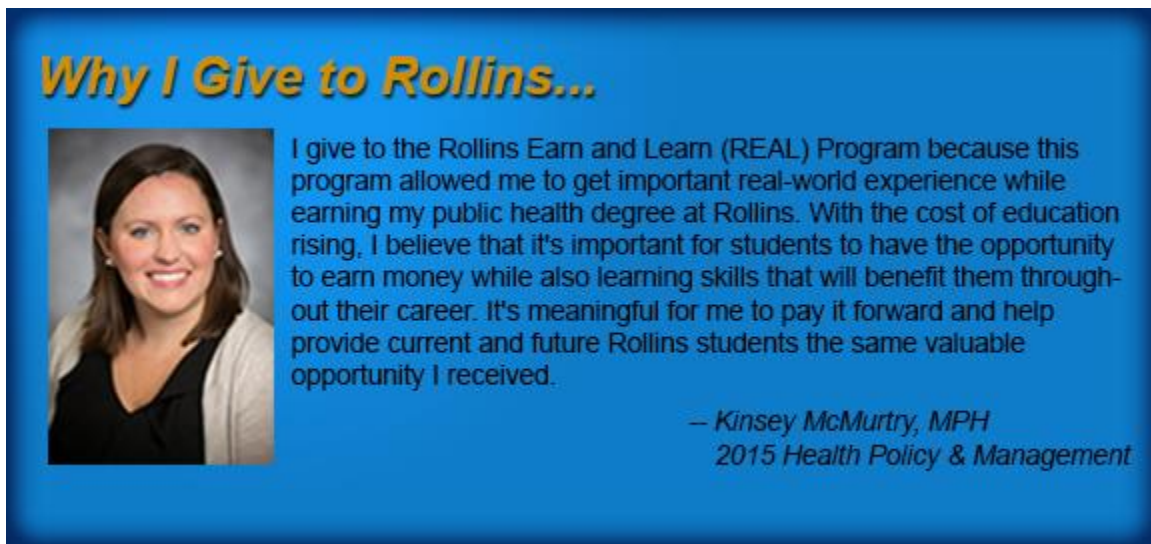

While your technical skills may get your foot in the door, your interpersonal skills are likely what will take you the furthest. Your leadership style, your communication skills, your emotional intelligence, and a whole host of other personal attributes are the soft skills critical for career success. Why I Give to Rollins...

I give to the Rollins Earn and Learn (REAL) Program because this program allowed me to get important real-world experience while earning my public health degree at Rollins. With the cost of education rising, I believe that it's important for students to have the opportunity to earn money while also learning skills that will benefit them throughout their career. It's meaningful for me to pay it forward and help provide current and future Rollins students the same valuable opportunity I received.
