About 2015-2016 RSPH Mentoring Program

The program runs between September 2015 and May 2016. Hundreds of Rollins graduates have benefited from this program in previous years. It is a unique opportunity for the mentors to make a personal contribution to the professional development of RSPH students.

This program emphasizes professional development and postgraduate aspirations. The true purpose is for the mentors to share their experiences with current Rollins students to provide real-world knowledge and insights. Although a student’s participation may occasionally lead to an internship or field experience, this is not an expectation of the program.

Qualification & Application

Participation of the RSPH Mentoring Program requires professional behaviors. Current MPH/MSPH full time students who can commit to follow high ethical standards and responsibility are qualified to apply for this program. Students who are interested in participating should read the Mentee Guide carefully before signing up.

To apply for this program, please submit the 3 part application packet, including one hard copy of:

1. the online application form (you can find the link to the application on our website www.sph.emory.edu/careers),
2. your signed Professionalism Contract (page 11 of the Mentee Guide) and
3. your current resume (It doesn’t need to be perfect; it is used for matching purposes to understand your previous experience.)

All 3 application materials should be received by the front desk of the Office of Career Development located on the 8th floor of GCR building before 3p.m. on Friday, September 18, 2015. Late or incomplete applications will not be considered for participation in the RSPH Mentoring Program.

The Mentee Selection & Matching Process

The submission of an application does not imply automatic acceptance into the Mentoring Program. Students will be selected based upon evidence of their commitment to maintaining a mentoring relationship shown in the application AND availability of a suitable match.

Our Selection and Matching Committee will review each application carefully and may request an interview with a student. The committee is dedicated to do its best to match individuals with similar interests and experiences. Participants should understand that a perfect match is not guaranteed.

Each mentoring group will consist of 1 public health professional as the mentor and 1 or 2 assigned mentees to allow a close mentor-mentee relationship.

Pre-selected students will be notified via e-mail before 5 p.m. on Friday, September 18th. In order to receive their match, selected students should attend one of the 45 minute Mentee Mandatory Orientation (Mentoring 101).
Mandatory Mentee Orientation (Mentoring 101)

Three sessions of Mentee Mandatory Orientation (Mentoring 101) will be available for pre-selected students to attend. RSVP via ROL – Handshake for one of three sessions. RSVP information will be also included in the pre-selection notification e-mail being sent by September 18th.

The orientation is to familiarize pre-selected students with their roles and responsibilities. Pre-selected students who have successfully attended Mentee Orientation will be notified by October 22, 2015 if they have been matched with a mentor.

Withdrawal from the Mentoring Program

By signing up to participate in the Mentoring Program, you have obligated yourself to remain a positive, professional, and productive mentee. If you cannot fulfill your obligations, you must contact your mentor and the Office of Career Development to formally withdraw. If mentee fails to do so, he/she may be suspended from access to the services and events of the Office of Career Development.

Program Evaluations

Each program participant will receive an online evaluation survey at the end of the program in order for the Office of Career Development to obtain your feedback on the program and your mentoring relationship. We welcome personal and confidential comments throughout the duration of the program.

What is Mentoring?
Mentoring is a process in which a more experienced individual (mentor) helps a less experienced person (mentee) discover new areas of knowledge and insights in a particular field. Mentors also potentially assist mentees in setting professional goals through a series of ongoing, time-limited, confidential conversations and other learning activities. It is a relationship based upon mutual trust and respect.

What Mentoring Is and Is Not

Mentoring Is:
- A commitment
- Being open minded
- Sharing experiences
- Improving communication skills
- Increasing networking opportunities
- Developing/strengthening professional skills
- An expansion of one’s worldview

Mentoring Is Not:
- A guarantee of a job
- Therapy
- Supervision
- Tutoring
- Effortless

What is a Mentor?
The mentor acts as the informal coach of the mentee. The mentor can often help the mentee set specific goals and work toward those goals.

Mentors usually are able to:
- Take time and provide attention
- Be a role model and an advisor
- Demonstrate commitment, competence, and a willingness to extend knowledge
- Help mentee build confidence by teaching skills and offering feedback
- See solutions and opportunities as well as barriers
- Respect and appreciate differences
- Exhibit trust and maintain confidentiality

Who can be a Mentee?
This program targets RSPH MPH/MSPH full time students. Students will be selected based upon evidence of their commitment to maintain a mentoring relationship, demonstrated in their application packet AND the availability of a suitable match.

Possible Benefits to Mentees
- Opportunity to learn from someone more experienced
- Improved communication skills
- Increased self-awareness
- Increased awareness of professional challenges and needs for improvement
- Exposure to new ideas, theories, practices, and/or people
- Expansion of one’s worldview
Mentee Responsibilities
During your first meetings with your mentor, we suggest that you clearly define the relationship to best meet your and your mentors’ needs. The following suggestions may assist your initial discussions:

Set Goals & Determine Interests
Establish mutually agreeable goals for the mentoring relationship. For example, if 2 mentees are assigned in your group, you will want to decide who will assume responsibility for arranging each meeting. Discuss the expected frequency of when it will be possible to meet your mentor in person.

Determine experiences you would like to gain through the program. For example, are you interested in job shadowing, attending meetings in your mentor’s organization, receiving information about other professional development opportunities?

When setting goals and determining your interests, discuss your goals and interests with your mentor and find out whether they are reasonable and feasible. You should make sure that your goals are SMART – Specific, Measurable, Attainable, Realistic, and Timely. A SMART goal has a greater chance of being accomplished than a general goal. A general goal might be “Learn more about infectious disease,” whereas a SMART goal would be “Shadow an infectious disease specialist at CDC for a week to learn about the day-to-day life of a professional in the field.”

An Action Plan Template is also available for use in the RSPH Mentoring Program. We strongly encourage you to use it as a tool to develop your goals and discuss those goals with your mentor. When you share your goals with your mentor, your mentor will be able to provide his/ her suggestions and be in a better position to help you achieve them. The template is available as a Word document on the Office of Career Development website (www.sph.emory.edu/careers) and will be attached to your pre-selection email notification.

Listening Actively
Listening actively is the most essential skill you will use throughout your relationship. Active listening not only establishes rapport but creates a positive, accepting environment that permits open communication.

Building Trust
Trust is built over time. Trust comes from a sense of comfort with another person, and comfort comes from repeated experiences and exposure. You will increase trust by keeping your conversations and other communications confidential, honoring your scheduled meetings and calls, and consistently showing interest.

Identify Boundaries & Follow a Professional Code of Conduct
All professional relationships have boundaries about what is and isn’t permitted. The mentor relationship should comply with professional code of conduct standards at all times.

Apply What is Learned
Put patterns of professional behavior into practice. Practice new behaviors or skills, and take full advantage of any assistance offered.
Help Your Mentor Get Connected & Reciprocate
Our mentors all have passions to connect with the current issues at RSPH and at Emory. Serve as a model representation of RSPH and your academic department. Invite your mentor to campus events, presentations, or lectures. As a mentee, you probably have some knowledge, perspectives, or connections that your mentor would appreciate. Make yourself useful and you will make yourself worth the investment of time.

Express Gratitude
Our mentors are all volunteers. They spare their time in addition to their full time job to mentor you and to help you be successful. Let them know that you appreciate their commitment. Never take your mentor for granted.

Keep the Office of Career Development (OCD) Informed
Let OCD know what is working well and what is not. We build our programs on participants’ comments and suggestions and welcome your candid feedback.

Other suggestions and activities:
- Plan business luncheons and coffee breaks
- Invite your mentor to campus events, presentations, or lectures
  - Emory Events Calendar http://www.emory.edu/home/events/
  - Rollins Calendar of Events http://www.sph.emory.edu/cms/about/rsph_cal.html
- Attend workshops, symposia, and/or conferences together
- Join professional organizations and associations
- Exchange and review each other’s résumés
- Shadow a mentor or volunteer within his/her organization
- Observe holidays, birthdays, other celebrations, or accomplishments for your Mentor group
- Engage in recreational or other social activities

Best Practices (Summarized from State Health Leadership Initiative Mentoring Guide)
- You are responsible for your own growth
- Allow your mentor and fellow mentee to help you think more broadly and deeply
- Think of your mentor as a “learning facilitator” rather than the person with all the answers
- Be receptive to feedback
- Ask your mentor to share with you successful strategies and resources he/she has used in the past that could apply to the challenges you may currently face
- Know that the energy you invest will have a significant impact on your development
Mentoring Dos and Don’ts

Do:
- Take time to identify your goals.
- Use the Professionalism Contract as the professional principles to follow.
- Be considerate of your mentors' time and be responsive.
- Seriously consider all advice you receive.
- Show evidence you've utilized your mentor’s help in making decisions.
- Show appreciation for every form of assistance your mentor gives you. (Say thanks, praise them in front of others, send a note, etc.)
- Make it easy for your mentor to give you corrective feedback. Ask for it early.
- Assume the relationship will be strictly professional.
- Ask mentor’s permission to continue the mentorship after the program ends in May 2016.
- Keep in touch once you part company after the program ends. Send a note or call from time to time to provide updates and to express gratitude.

Don’t:
- Depend on your mentors to identify your goals for you.
- Assume your mentors have unlimited time for you.
- Say “Yes, but…”
- Forget to share the outcome of the help your mentor provided.
- Take your mentor for granted.
- Immediately defend or explain yourself, or worse, criticize your mentor.
- Intrude into your mentor’s personal life or expect to be friends.
- Talk negatively about your team members nor your mentor.
- Leave on bad terms.
- Move on without checking back with a past mentor.

What if Problems Arise?
The unexpected happens. When it happens, take the initiative and contact your mentor and fellow mentee. Discuss your situation with them. Get back to them with a new timeline for meetings/activities you’ve planned.

If you are not able to resolve issues with your mentor, please feel free to contact the Office of Career Development (OCD). You may find it helpful to discuss with the OCD staff ideas and strategies for resolving problematic mentoring issues.
